POLITICAL LUCK

Of Free-Traders—European War Came Just In Time to Cover Up Increasing Treasury Deficit.

(Rutland (Vt.) Herald)
It seems grimly humorous that notwithstanding what many students of public affairs have called bad legislation, the tremendous cataclysm of European war should have made it impossible to determine what the actual effects may be of the so-called administration program.

With European competition eliminated, the serious results of the Democratic Tariff becomes a dead issue and the revenue deficit is nicely explained as a "war measure," the falling off in imports rather than the defects of the law itself being given as a reason.

In the same manner, the serious derangement of the business world prevents any accurate conception of the efficiency secured by the currency law. With emergency conditions prevailing and the Government under direct obligation to stand behind the whole fabric of finance, nothing can be determined at present in regard to that "triumph" of the Democratic majority.

In the same manner, no Attorney General would consider the present particularly unfortunate for the enforcement of anti-trust laws, with thousands of business enterprises seriously disturbed by the derangement of foreign markets, conditions everywhere prevailing of an abnormal character. The new squeezing business will therefore practically by default until more stability in the commercial world.

At the same time the American voter is very distinct remembrance of times before the war broke out; abbreviated output and fewer hours work of an influx of free-made goods and a thinner pay envelope. He is apt to discriminate between the abnormality of war conditions and the normal restrictions of wise economic conditions.

It is perhaps too much to hope that fall elections will see any serious subversion of Democratic majorities in House and Senate, but it is also entirely proper to expect that the trend back to proper principles will see a good many object lessons emphasized which will show the fairly complete elimination of the third party as a factor in State and national politics.

REV. WILLIAM W. HALL

Mortal Remains of Beloved Minister Laid Away In the Bosom of Mother Earth—Mourned by Sorrowing Host of Friends.

"Blessed are they who die in the Lord.—They shall rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

The remains of Rev. W. W. Hall of this county, who passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. D. H. Breck in Richmond, Ky., Sunday evening, reached Maysville yesterday morning at 10 o'clock over the L. & N. and was met by a sorrowing number of relatives and friends and taken to the Christian church and the services conducted by the Rev. Maurice Waller, by special request of Rev. Hall before he passed away. Pastor Stahl led in prayer and the choir sang sweetly the hymns so full of joy and meaning to Brother Hall when in life.

Rev. W. J. Loos of Mayslick, one of Rev. Hall's most intimate friends in the Christian Church ministry offered the closing prayer.

The church was crowded with the friends and relatives of this dear departed "Little Minister," and strong men and gentle women wept over the bier of a man and preacher who was like unto a father to all he met.

Rev. Hall was gentle, humane, tolerant, charitable and good-natured. He understood the strength and the weakness of all his brothers and sisters.

As he lay so cold, so white, so still in his narrow bier, it was almost too much for those who knew him and loved him to realize that never again on this earth would they behold the light of his kindly eye and feel the grasp of his friendly and sincere hand.

But he's gone—gone to Heaven, where we sinners on this earth will have an eloquent advocate before the Throne of Grace for fallen humanity.

Rev. Dr. Waller's remarks over his departed friend were touchingly sincere and timely because of the mutual esteem existing for years between them.

Dr. Waller said in part: "Brother W. W. Hall passed his 76th birthday last April. He was born in this county and spent the most of his life in his native county. He was always delicate. As a boy he was delicate and as he grew to manhood no continued delicate. But his was a full and useful life. He never hoped to attain to old age, but God who is wiser than man, spared his life beyond the ordinary limit of old age, and for useful purposes.

"In early life he gave himself to God and entered the service of the Lord Jesus. At the age of 21 he entered the ministry of the Gospel in connection with the Christian church constrained by the love of Christ and continued in this blessed work the long period of 55 years and continued in it until God called him to a higher and more blessed service, and in this work he never failed to answer a call of duty unless constrained to do so by sickness. Brother Hall was never a strong man physically but he always stood in the community for righteousness and truth. It was a long service and testimony for God and His cause among men, and he loved especially to dwell upon the infinite love of God for lost men through His son Jesus Christ. It was a valuable life but it has now been closed, God in His wisdom has called him home, to his reward and as we believe, to a higher service.

"Brother Hall was a large and broad minded Christian man. He did not confine his interest and love to his own immediate denomination, but he included all who loved God and served Jesus Christ, as this was illustrated by the fact one who was not connected with his immediate denomination of Christians to conduct his funeral service, some months ago when he found his health and strength failing; he exacted a promise from one he had known long to render this sacred service for him.

"I knew him long and well. I never knew him to speak an unkind or harsh word of any one. There was always kind words or an excuse when called to speak of any one. But he has gone and we shall no more meet his kindly welcome in this world. But he has left

Mr. Ben Lauth of Ripley came up to Maysville yesterday to attend the funeral of his old friend, Rev. W. W. Hall.

Listen, kiddoes, and you shall hear Of the ragtime ride of Paul Revere
It was some ride,
He did a glide
'Way out to Lexington
From Boston town
He tangoed down
And there was heaps of fun.

He put the foe right on the blink
They had to do the kitchen sink
In double time,
Oh, it was prime!
The farmer didn't lag
They soon got help
And how they'd step
That revolution rag.

us an example of good will and friendship to all men it would be well for us to follow. The world would be better if there was exercised more of patience forbearance and kindly affection for others among men as did Brother Hall.

"He was a man of unusual mental ability as well as kindness of heart. What he believed he believed earnestly and always expressed clearly and with strength. He was once married; besides his wife he left two sons and one daughter, Pickett and Langhorne Hall who we all know, and his daughter, Mary.

"May the Lord bless, comfort, care for and guide them as His own is our earnest prayer."

IN MEMORIAM.

Virtue forms no shield to ward off the arrows of death. Could it have availed, even when joined with prayers of a whole community, then, indeed, this mournful occasion would never have occurred, and the life of Mr. Hall would have been immortal; still has he left behind him his better part—the legacy of his bright example, the memory of his deeds.

But even amid the mourning with which our souls are shrouded, is there not some room for gratulation? Our departed friend has gone down to the grave peacefully and quietly, at a good old age. He has performed his appointed work. His virtues were ripe. He had done nothing to sully his fair name. No blot or soil of envy or calumny can now affect him. His character will stand upon the pages of memory, pure and unadorned as the lily blossom on his country's banner. He has departed from us. He has left the friends of his old age, to associate with the friends of his youth. Peace to his ashes. Calm and quiet may they rest upon some vine clad hill of his own beloved land! And let no cunning sculpture, no monumental marble defile with its mock dignity his grave; but rather let the wild flower and free song of the uncaged bird, all that speaks of freedom and peace be gathered around it. He needs no mausoleum. His epitaph is engraved upon the hearts of his friends.

"HE WAS A GOOD MAN"

(Ripley Bee.)

Rev. W. W. Hall, an aged and well known minister of Mason county, died Sunday evening at the home of his daughter in Richmond, Ky. The remains will be laid to rest in Maysville cemetery today. "Billy" Hall was known to nearly everybody and numbered his friends by the hundreds. He was a good man. Peace to his ashes.

Every sixteen-year-old girl announces that she wouldn't marry the best man living. And she always keeps her word.

The average married woman imagines that her husband's motto is: "If a first she won't believe, lie, lie, lie again."

When a girl has a cute little nose, two pretty eyes, a kissable mouth and a pimple on her face, she imagines that the only thing a man notices is the pimple.

GOD MOVES IN A MYSTERIOUS WAY.

(William Cowper.)

God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform;
He plants His footsteps in the sea, And rides upon the storm.

Deep in unfathomable mines, With never failing skill,
He treasures up His bright designs, And works His sovereign will.

Ye fearful saints, fresh courage take; The clouds ye so much dread
Are big with mercy, and shall break In blessings on your head.

Judge not the Lord by feeble sense, But trust Him for His grace;
Behind a frowning providence He hides a smiling face.

His purposes will ripen fast, Unfolding every hour;
The bud may have a bitter taste, But sweet will be the flower.

Blind unbelief is sure to err, And scan His work in vain;
God is His own interpreter, And He will make it plain.
